

Aggeliki Androutsopoulou is a postdoc researcher in the University of the Aegean. She holds a Bachelor Degree in Informatics from the Athens University of Economics and Business, a Master of Science in "Technologies and Management of Information and Communication Systems" and a Phd in "eGovernment Information Systems" from the University of the Aegean, Department of Information and Communication Systems Engineering. Currently, she is a Research Associate in the Information Systems Laboratory at the Department of Information and Communication Systems Engineering, University of the Aegean. She has eight years experience in managing European and National research projects from a technical and administrative viewpoint (EU-Community, NOMAD, PADGETS, NET-EUCEN, ENGAGE, PLUG-IN). Through her participation in the above projects projects, she has acquired expertise in project management, in designing and evaluating eGovernment Information Systems and in coordinating pilot applications in the public sector.

She has plenty of publications in international journals and conferences in the area of eGovernment, eParticipation and Social Media, Policy modelling and Simulation Systems. Aggeliki was the best paper winner award in the 15th IFIP Electronic Government (EGOV) 2016 and ePart 2016 conference, with the publication entitled "Passive Expert-Sourcing for Policy Making in the European Union". During the last five years, she has been Member of the Organising Committee of the "Samos Summit" international annual conference.

Specialties: eGovernment and Complex Information Systems, Social Media, eParticipation and Policy modelling